Note: It is the student’s responsibility to be sure that the Praxis Content test has been taken and that BYU has received the test scores, that their finger print and background clearance is current, and that state licensing fees have been paid prior to graduation. Teaching licensure in Utah also requires candidates to pass the PPAT exam. Students will also be responsible for any additional requirements imposed by the state prior to their graduation.

For students accepted into the major after December 16, 2019, grades below C in any required coursework in a teaching major or teaching minor will not be accepted. Teacher candidates must maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.7 or higher once admitted into the program to qualify for student teaching.

For additional details on admission and retention requirements for teaching majors and teaching minors, see Educator Preparation Program Requirements in the Undergraduate Catalog.

THE DISCIPLINE:

Academic preparation in this interdisciplinary education program includes study in the areas of early childhood development, marriage and family relationships, parenting education, housing and interiors, clothing and textiles, and nutrition and wellness.

With the development of a knowledge base in these critical areas, graduates will be prepared to provide valuable content to secondary education students as they confront life’s challenges. These students can become a resource to their own families empowering them to become healthy community contributors.

This program interfaces with the McKay School of Education and includes professional education courses.
CAREER OPPORTUNITIES:
This Family and Consumer Sciences Education program prepares students to be licensed by the Utah State Board of Education for teaching in public, private, and charter secondary education schools. This teaching license can be transferred to other states upon meeting individual state requirements. Students may also find employment in business and cooperative extension. Outside the physical classroom, family and consumer sciences education graduates can develop curriculum or educational software, and work in organizations that provide tutoring, online education, or distance learning. Graduates are well positioned to pursue advanced degrees in order to facilitate professional development at the district and state administration levels or to qualify to teach higher education.

RESEARCH OPPORTUNITIES:
Contact your professor for this information.

INTERNSHIPS:
Internships are granted by individual school principals on an “as needed” basis. They are an August to June contract and are applied for in January, the winter semester prior to the upcoming Fall school year.

Selection of interns is done through a competitive process. Participation in an internship does not guarantee employment.
