Note:

- Contact the college advisment center for help in outlining an efficient schedule.
- Students are encouraged to complete an average of 15 credit hours each semester or 30 credit hours each year, which could include spring and/or summer terms. Taking fewer credits substantially increases the cost and the number of semesters to graduate.

Editing students typically go on to careers in book, journal, and magazine publishing, but they can apply editing skills in most professional settings. All professions rely on information.

CAREER STRATEGIES:
BYU editing students find work in a variety of enterprises:
- Freelance working
- Publishing houses
- Businesses and corporations
- Nonprofit organizations such as government agencies, libraries, museums, schools, universities
- Scientific and technical organizations

They edit and publish content in a variety of genres:
- Books
- Magazines
- Scholarly works
- Web content
- Advertising and marketing material
- Technical materials
- Legal case studies and analyses
- Personal and family histories

Students also leverage their editing training to pursue graduate school in a variety of disciplines.

MAP DISCLAIMER
While every reasonable effort is made to ensure accuracy, there is the communicative power of language that brings cohesion to all human enterprises.

Editing is just one of many real-world applications of linguistic analysis which also includes translation, information storage/retrieval, lexicography, and language teaching.
are some student populations that could have exceptions to listed requirements. Please refer to the university catalog and your college advisement center/department for complete guidelines.
