GENERAL INFORMATION:

Working under faculty direction, students in the school edit and publish the Universe as a laboratory newspaper for the campus, produce daily television newscasts on KBYU-TV, produce universe.byu.edu for the Internet, plan advertising and public relations campaigns, solve media sales and management problems, and use “new media” in diverse situations. The School of Communications sponsors the International Media Studies Program, which seeks to broaden students’ awareness of worldwide communications issues and practices. Not only do students have opportunity to study the media systems of other nations through classes and on-site experiences, but media practitioners of other nations are also brought to campus as lecturers and visiting experts. The department encourages early admission. Students who enroll in Comms 101, 235 and complete the English requirement can apply to the major as early as the second semester of their freshman year.

SCHOOL REQUIREMENTS:

1. Each student must be Pre-Comms in order to apply to the major. Contact the college advisement center for admission requirements, or comms.byu.edu.
2. All students must take a campus writing course before applying for admission to the major. WRTG 150 or any Advanced Writing Course fulfills this requirement. AP credit does not.
3. Complete a minimum of 72 hours in courses outside of the department, while meeting BYU’s University Core requirements.
4. Every student is required to complete an internship. Although the school operates an internship office (280 Brimhall Building) that serves as a clearinghouse for internship information, the responsibility for securing an internship rests with the student. However, students may not embark on any internship without prior approval from a faculty advisor, before processing appropriate documents with the Internship Office (280 BRMB), and without being enrolled in Comms 496R.
5. In certain courses, students will be required to demonstrate proficiency in InDesign, Adobe Photoshop and Adobe Illustrator by portfolio review.
See the School of Communications in 360 BRMB.
6. For program objectives, please see: learningoutcomes.byu.edu.

THE DISCIPLINE:

Public relations is a core management function that adds value to organizations by building mutually beneficial relationships with an organization's stakeholders through two-way communication. These relationships, built on trust and responsiveness, generate goodwill and safeguard reputation. Communications majors who choose the public relations emphasis will build on the liberal arts foundation of their general education courses as they learn and apply the public relations process, which consists of research, strategic planning, communication, and evaluation.

Students will take classes in research and measurement; strategic planning; public relations writing and earned media techniques; social and digital media research and strategy; content marketing; and communication ethics. The public relations emphasis prepares students with critical skills in analytical thinking, writing, research, campaign planning and management, creative problem solving, and relationship building. Students will also learn to communicate with a wide variety of stakeholders and publics including journalists, social media influencers, consumers, employees, social media communities, community residents, activists, and government.

Along the way, students will have multiple opportunities to apply what they are learning in the classroom as they solve public relations problems for real-world clients. Those who are particularly interested in social and digital media can get involved with Y Digital, an award-winning, student-run, professionally mentored agency that works on projects for local, regional, national and international clients. All students in the emphasis will take a capstone class where they will work together as a team, using everything they have learned, to solve a complex and ambiguous communication problem for a real-world client.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES:

Public relations graduates work in virtually all segments of the public and private sectors throughout the world. Graduates can work as independent consultants or as part of large corporate communication teams for multinational corporations. They can work for small, boutique public relations agencies or large, global public relations and communications marketing firms. They can also work in a variety of industries, including arts and entertainment, financial services, food and beverage, government, education, retail, travel and tourism, healthcare, tech, and nonprofit. Graduates may work as technical communication experts or in strategic management roles. They may also specialize in a variety of practice areas, such as research and evaluation, employee relations, community relations, public affairs, media relations, and digital and social media.

OFF-CAMPUS PROFESSIONAL INTERNSHIPS:

Internships must be arranged with the approval of students’ faculty advisors. Students are required to complete 280 hours on an internship. Such an internship must be under the supervision of a full-time public relations practitioner. Prerequisites for the internship are Comms 318, 320 and 336. Internships on campus must be specifically approved by the faculty advisor well in advance. Not all campus internships fill the requirement. Students must have C– or better in all internship prerequisite classes.

FACULTY ADVISOR:

Check with the School of Communications, 360 BRMB, to be assigned to a faculty advisor.

MAP DISCLAIMER

While every reasonable effort is made to ensure accuracy, there are some student populations that could have exceptions to listed requirements. Please refer to the university catalog and your college advisement center/department for complete guidelines.
