Graduation Requirements:

- Minimum residence hours required: 30.0
- Minimum hours needed to graduate: 120.0

Note: Check with department for current availability of all courses.

Note: Students are encouraged to complete an average of 15 credit hours each semester or 30 credit hours each year, which could include spring and/or summer terms. Taking fewer credits substantially increases the cost and the number of semesters to graduate.
The German and Russian Department requires a minimum of 18 hours of upper-division major credit to be taken in residence at BYU for this degree program. These hours may also be applied to BYU’s 30-hour residency requirement for graduation. For students accepted into the major after December 16, 2019, grades below C in any required coursework in a teaching major or teaching minor will not be accepted. Teacher candidates must maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.7 or higher once admitted into the program and to qualify for student teaching. For additional details on admission and retention requirements for teaching majors and teaching minors, see Educator Preparation Program Requirements in the Undergraduate Catalog.

THE DISCIPLINE:

Students of foreign language and literature develop fluency in another language as well as sensitivity to their own language and cultural heritage, to the contributions and diversity of other peoples, and to the advantages of an international perspective.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES:

Majors in German teaching cultivate proficiency and cultural knowledge as well as pedagogical skills that prepare them for teaching positions in German at both the middle and high school level. When combined with classroom teaching experience, graduates of this program are also positioned to work as curriculum specialists and teacher coaches at the school or district level. Many also pursue advanced degrees that allow them to teach concurrent enrollment courses as well as work in higher education and K-12 administration. Beyond traditional teaching careers, graduates from this program develop skills that they can apply in education technology, distance learning, corporate training, and curriculum design.

| German Language Study Abroad. An opportunity for developing language proficiency as well as for becoming better acquainted with the history and culture of Europe. Offered in Spring, Summer, or Fall, depending on the director. Required for the German minor, with rare exceptions. | German and Russian Department
Brigham Young University
3112 JFSB
Provo, UT 84602
Telephone: 801-422-4923 |
| Berlin Internship Program. We offer a broad range of internship opportunities in Berlin and a few other locations. Students receive individual help to find and prepare for a work experience that will improve their German-language skills and provide a meaningful context for their academic studies. Students participate in a language course during the internship. | ADVISEMENT CENTER INFORMATION

| Foreign Language Student Residence. An opportunity to live with other students who have pledged to use only German within the house and with head residents who are native speakers of German. Enrollment in 311R is required while living in the house. Prerequisite: Germ 102 or equivalent. | |
| German-Speaking LDS Mission or Other Extended German-Speaking Residency. Advanced students enroll in Germ 330 and, if desired, complete examinations for Germ 101, 102, 201, and 311R. | |
| Study at a German University. The department recommends that students spend their junior year, if possible, at a German university taking courses that will apply toward the major. Universities in Germany charge no tuition, so, even though living costs are generally higher, with careful planning and modest financial support, most students find they can study at “Provo parity,” that is, for about the same amount as a year of study in Provo. For advice about how to enroll and what financial support is available, contact the department office. | |
| MAP DISCLAIMER
While every reasonable effort is made to ensure accuracy, there are some student populations that could have exceptions to listed requirements. Please refer to the university catalog and your college advisement center/department for complete guidelines. | |
